Great Advance in Photographing with Artificial Light—Magnesium Pictures of Mammoth Cave

[Correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial.]

MAMMOTH CAVE, November 13th.—Not long since mention was made in your journal of some stereoscopic photographs taken in Mammoth Cave by Charles Waldack of your city, he being the operator for Messrs. John Proctor and J. O'Shaughnessy, also of Cincinnati, who last Spring secured for five years the right of the cave for photographic purposes. Since then they have carried their experiments to a novel degree of perfection for photography by artificial light is an art in its infancy, and its first promising successes have occurred here. A review of these experiments, the most extensive and laborious ever attempted and occurring in the greatest known cave in the world, may be of interest to your readers, and a brief one designed to be in popular form, is submitted.

USE OF ARTIFICIAL LIGHT IN PHOTOGRAPHY.

Many attempts have been made to use artificial light in photography, and for certain special purposes have been attended with success. The electric light produced by a common telegraphic battery, the lime light and its modification, and even the common gas light, can be made use of for ordinary purposes, such as the production of magic lantern slides, of transparent stereographs on glass, and of enlarged copies of microscopic objects. But all such sources of illumination are found inadequate when it is required to take a photograph by means of the ordinary photographic camera. Photography has also been attempted by means of different combustible mixtures (some of them very dangerous to handle), but with very imperfect results. These failures are to be attributed to two causes:

1. The difficulty of obtaining a sufficient illumination.
2. The nature of the light itself.

Sunlight is a compound of the seven colors of the rainbow, each color producing a different illumination. The actinic power of light, the power that produces certain changes in the chemical nature of certain substances, is what the photographer uses, and that is found most intense in the blue, indigo and violet rays. It is the same power that colors vegetation and causes certain colors to bleach.

Artificial light is composed of the same colors as natural light, but in different proportions. The lime light is deficient in actinic power, because it contains too much yellow. The electric light is richer in actinism, but not rich enough. The most actinic of all artificial lights is produced by the combustion of magnesium.

THE MAGNESIUM LIGHT.

This is the nearest approach to daylight of any, and its brilliancy is unsurpassed. A small magnesium wire, scarcely exceeding 1-100 of an inch in diameter, emits, when burning, a light equal to that of seventy-four stearine candles, and as its color is much whiter its photographic power is found to be far more intense.

The magnesium light has been used for photographic purposes but a short time. In November, 1864, M. A. Brothers, a photographer of Manchester, England, began using it for portraiture. It is so brilliant, however, that the eye of the subject suffers from it, and the countenance is apt to assume a distorted expression. In February, 1865, C. Piazzi Smith, the eminent archeologist, used a mixture of magnesium filings and gunpowder to photograph certain parts of the magnificent interior apartments of the Great Pyramid in Egypt. These were the only notable experiments anterior to those treated of in this article.

WHAT MAGNESIUM IS.

Magnesium is the element of which the common magnesia is the oxide. It is a metal having much the appearance of silver, though it is but one sixth the specific gravity of silver. It melts at a red heat, and, at a little higher temperature, enters into combustion, burning with a white flame of exceeding brilliancy. Its price is very high, being eighty-four dollars per pound, four times that of silver. This is owing not to the scarcity of its compounds, for they are found in great abundance, but to the complicated method of its manufacture. It is but very recently that a practicable method has been discovered for producing the metal on a commercial scale.

It is manufactured both in the form of round wire and wire flattened as a ribbon. Two ribbons and one wire twisted together, and about a foot long, form a taper, such as is used for photograph purposes. It is used, also, for illuminating the slides of magic lanterns, and for headlights of steamers, lighthouses, etc., it would be vastly superior to any other illuminating agent known. The light of one taper has been seen a distance of twenty-six miles at sea. It is beginning to be used, also, in examinations with the speculum and in connection with the laryngoscope, a small instrument consisting of two mirrors, by means of which the lower parts of the larynx may be conveniently brought to view. A small quantity of magnesium powder gives to the bouquet of rockets and similar fireworks a wonderful and piercing brilliancy. It is also well adapted for illuminating dramatic spectacles. A small quantity of the powder mixed with the gunpowder makes a brilliant stage lightning.

The first experiments in Mammoth Cave were made on the venerable stalactites in Gothic Chapel, one and a half miles from the entrance. The first picture was attempted with eight tapers. This was found too few, and the number was increased to fifteen, then to twenty-five, and for subsequent negatives as many as fifty to one hundred and twenty were burned at once. About forty satisfactory negatives have been secured up to this time, nearly three months' time having been consumed in attaining this result. The excellence of the pictures will surprise none more than those who have visited the cave and are familiar with its many uninviting features to any save the sight-seer.

MOST DEPLORABLE IGNORANCE.—A recent issue of the British Quarterly Review contains the following astounding—nay, almost incredible—revelations of the ignorance which exists among some sections of the British community:

In Birmingham thirty-two persons, averaging more than twelve years of age, including a young man of twenty, and two young women, could not tell the Queen's name. The commonest and simpler objects of nature, such as flowers, birds, fishes, mountains and the sea, were unknown. Some thought London was a country, one that it was in the exhibition; a violet was said to be a pretty bird, a primrose a red rose, lilac also a bird, but whether a robin or an eagle were birds none could say; some knew not what a river meant, or where snow comes from, and a cow in a picture was pronounced to be a lion. Multitudes of these poor children can never have seen a primrose by the river's brim, or heard the song of the lark.

EX GOVERNOR SEYMOUR.—The St. Paul (Minnesota) Press reiterates its former assertion regarding the conversation of Gov. Seymour while there, and says:

We know nothing of what Gov. Seymour says in New York, but what he said here we do know upon the most unimpeachable authority, and he said here that he was in favor of the Constitutional Amendment, that the South ought to accept it, and that if he was a Southerner he would vote for negro suffrage.

RISTORI.—The Boston Post says: "The success of Ristori has been quite without precedent. She made her debut in this country in New York, September 20th, where she gave, including those in Brooklyn, twenty-six representations. The receipts were $10,000. With the matinee to be given this afternoon the performances in Boston will number ten, and with the one given in Providence on Wednesday evening the receipts will amount to $30,000 or $100,000 in less than two months. Signor Giacomo Gleck is seriously ill in Boston."

HERCULANEUM.—A French paper says the excavations at Herculaneum are expected to be much more productive than Pompeii, whence a great many persons had time to carry away their chief valuables before the storm of ashes and lava overwhelmed the place. At Herculaneum the case was different. The labor will, it is said, be greater than at Pompeii—a mountain of lava has to be pierced, and a descent made into the city as into a mine.

It is estimated that twenty-two hundred changes in Postmasters in the Northern and Western States have occurred since the 1st of July.

Professor Newton, of Yale College, and Professor Ferguson, of the National Observatory, have the credit in the newspapers of having started the idea that a return of the phenomena of 1833 was to be expected this year. They are reported to have said that these showers return every thirty-three years, and yet they say that the one preceding that of 1833 occurred in 1799, which every child knows makes the interval between the last two thirty-four instead of thirty-three years. Olbers, the celebrated astronomer, supposes the real period to be thirty-four years, and that the display of 1799, repeated in 1833, will reappear in 1867. The truth is the whole subject is still involved in great mystery, and the periodicity of these showers is not yet sufficiently settled by astronomers to enable us to look with any great certainty for their return at any one period of time.

A Lady about to be Married Receives the Dead Body of an Infant by Express.

On Thursday forenoon an express wagon wound its way leisurely down South Clark street and came to a halt in front of the Morrison Building, situated on the east side of the said street, between Washington and Madison streets. The driver as leisurely dismounted from his seat, and taking a small fourteen by sixteen inch box from the vehicle, he mounted two flights of stairs and stopped before No. 38. He knocked and gained admittance. The lady knew him not, and he knew not the lady, but that made no difference—he had received orders to deliver the property to Mrs. James, room 38, Morrison Building, and all he wanted now was his charges, amounting to seventy-five cents, which were paid, and bowing his adieu, he came down stairs, again mounted his vehicle, and drove away as leisurely as he came.

Mrs. James was, of course, in a great desire to know the contents of the box so mysteriously delivered. For a moment she could not surmise who could have sent the same, but all of a sudden the mystery was explained. Was she not to be married in a few days, and who but a lover would pretend to use such caution? It was no doubt, intended for a surprise, and magnificent wedding trousseaus danced before her sparkling eyes. She procured a hatchet, and, with trembling hands, pried open the top. The sight that was presented spread a blush over her fair face. It was a steel plated engraving representing some rude heathen goddess, in an amorous attitude on the back of a noble swan, toying in the waters of a beautiful lake. That was surely a strange present for a lover—but she could excuse it in him in these degenerate days, and she quietly puts it one side. Next there came a layer of straw, which on being removed, revealed a glass jar. A jar? What could that contain to require such extraordinary caution? She could think of no suitable wedding present that required a jar, and her wonder increased. But hold, there was a slip of white paper pinned to the top, and something was written thereon in a neat female hand. She read, and a sickening sensation overcame her; she lifted the glass jar from the box, and had barely time to place the box on the table before she fell fainting on the floor. The noise occasioned by the fall attracted the attention of some ladies living in the same portion of the building, who, on entering the room, found Mrs. James in a deep swoon. They attempted to revive her, but before this was accomplished, they also observed the contents of the jar, and were hardly able to take care of themselves. But in the course of time, Mrs. James revived, and the ladies regaining their composure to some extent, attempted a more careful examination of the contents of the jar, but the object was so shocking that they could scarcely believe their own senses. This extraordinary disturber of female composure was the fœtus of a male child, about seven months old, preserved in alcohol, and on the slip of paper were these words, written in a neat female hand:

"I am in search of P. Clark. Will my future step-mother tell me where I can find him?"

The feelings of Mrs. James can be imagined when it is stated that this "P. Clark" is her affianced husband. After a lengthy consideration of the subject, as to what they should do with the strange and unnatural object, the ladies concluded to notify the Coroner, who subsequently took the contents of the jar in his charge.

The matter is undergoing a careful examination by the authorities, but as yet, the perpetrator of this disgusting and terrible outrage has not been discovered.—Chicago Times, Nov. 17th.

INDIAN TROUBLES NORTH.—The Yreka Journal of December 7th has the subjoined:

Some time ago the soldiers of Fort Klamath killed ten Snake Indians and Klamaths and Modocs, who were friendly to the whites, killed three. The consequence was a cessation of friendly feeling between the Snakes and Modocs and Klamaths. These tribes had been intermarrying and trading up to the occurrence of the two latter aiding the soldiers, and lived among the Snakes to a great extent. Now the Klamaths and the Modocs have all retired to the Klamath Lakes, and a few weeks ago had eight horses stolen by the Snakes and three killed. The Snakes are decidedly hostile toward the Klamaths and Modocs, and the chances are that a good deal of Indian fighting may be expected if either of the two latter tribes make any advance into the Snake country.

Impartial Suffrage

The Boston Post, the leading Democratic paper in New England, has the following editorial article:

When those who talk loudest about universal suffrage are taken seriously as to what they say, they betray the hollowness of the dogma and the insincerity of their professions by at once abandoning both. It could not be expected of them in reason that they should do less. Impartial suffrage is guarded by proper restrictions, so that the fountain of political power might not be polluted. Universal suffrage means a throwing down of every barrier in the shape of qualification and condition, by which the source of authority is kept from profanation, and tossing into the trampled arena of political strife the very safeguard that permits such contests in popular Governments at all.

Impartial suffrage is strictly according to the Democratic theory and rule; it is impossible to conceive from what other it derives its support. But its very name implies the existence of some sort of qualification, that, for instance, its enjoyment shall be put upon an impartial obedience to some requisition that is standard. To establish no standard is debasing the very authority derived; the abandonment of all conditions is an outright annihilation of the value of the franchise. When the founders of our republican Government laid broad and deep their plans, they had much to say on the purity of the ballot, and the due protection of the franchise. All their discussions of the subject go to prove that they thought the stability of the structure was to depend on the soundness of its foundations, and the chief among those foundations was the protected ballot. They did not hold that all power was derived from the consent of the governed, but they had never learned to stultify themselves by claiming that all alike possessed the right to vote because of their level qualifications.

This subject has been left, all through our history, with the State Governments for their own management, and there alone it belongs to-day. We realize that a new school of experimentalists has emerged from the chaotic style of thinking generated by the temporary tumults of war, who seem to believe that the bolder the assumptions the better chance for them to obtain a foothold, and whose leading tenet is that the war for the Union under the Constitution has been successful only as it has overthrown Union and Constitution together; but they advance no reasons and employ no substantial argument that can supplant the solid work of the framers of our system. The most that they can say is that things are changed. But the purpose of the war was not to revolutionize, but to establish. It is not more competent for Congress to go into the several States now and dictate the terms of suffrage than it was before the war. If it be, then it can be shown recorded on the programme of the purposes of the war. To say that it grew as a result out of the work of the war is merely to admit that the war has wholly broken up and destroyed our republican system.

There can be no valid objection to the prevalence of the impartial suffrage principle. Base it as here in Massachusetts on citizenship, taxation, and a certain degree of intelligence, and no reasonable man will question the fact that it is calculated to strengthen the political character of every State that adopts it. These three simple and comparatively easy qualifications are perfectly fair and do not derogate from the value and dignity of the elective franchise. They bestow it with freedom enough, and still surround it with the safeguards that are calculated to enhance it in the popular esteem. Those who acquire it feel that it is an acquisition, to be without it after coming to manhood would mark the denied individual unenviably. And from such considerations it becomes a possession that speaks the general authority with an appreciable emphasis.

The qualifications which we have named as peculiar to Massachusetts, we should be glad to see adopted in every State in the Union. They are just, because they are impartial. We would like to see them set up as a common standard of suffrage, to which men of all conditions and colors should duly report themselves for examination. Color ought to have no more to with the matter than size. Only establish a proper standard, and then apply it impartially. A rule of that sort is too firmly fixed in justice and equality to be shaken. It commends itself too clearly to the right sentiment of the entire body of our countrymen to be successfully traversed by objections. Once let this principle be fairly presented to the people of the several States, with the knowledge on their part that they alone are to have the disposal and settlement of it, and we sincerely believe it would not be long before it would be adopted by every State in the Union.

But adoption is another matter from enforcement. The most patient examination fails to reveal the authority from which Congress derives the power which many latterly claim for it, to go into the States and compel them to adopt a particular rule of suffrage, or to abolish all rules entirely. Not only is the ballot, which is the source of authority, corrupted by so leveling a process, but the primary prerogative of the States themselves is erased and trampled upon. The ballot loses its purity, the State is robbed by open violence, and the people are taught a lesson in arbitrary proceedings which they can as readily put in practice in the future without regard to the ballot as with. We repeat that we shall rejoice at the adoption of impartial suffrage by all the States, North and South alike; but we should not like to see that or any other sound and excellent principle forced upon the citizens of the States by any outside power whatever. There is such a thing as practically ruining even a good principle by a bad method of applying it. We are at perfect liberty to discuss this matter within those limits by which our own political power is bounded, and we may set forth as noble an illustration of our convictions as a local example will admit; but it is not allowed us to combine in Congress to compel other States to follow that example, though it were the perfection of reason in itself, and the ne plus ultra of justice and morality.

THE UNION PACIFIC RAILWAY.—REPORT OF THE EASTERN DIVISION.—A report from the President of the company constructing the Union Pacific Railway, Eastern Division, west from Wyandotte, Kansas, to the Secretary of the Interior, represents that within the last year the company have built and equipped 100 miles of main line of railroad and telegraph, and, in addition, 30 miles of a branch road from Lawrence to Leavenworth, which insures it another outlet to the Missouri river. The road is now completed to Fort Riley, 135 miles west of the Missouri river, of which 130 miles have been accepted by the Government, thus giving a continuous line of railroad and telegraph completed to a point 418 miles west of the city of St. Louis. The present equipment of the road is as follows: 9 locomotives, 10 first-class passenger cars, 3 baggage and express cars, 27 hand cars, in addition to which the company have purchased and partially received 8 locomotives, 5 passenger cars, 50 flat cars, 20 stock cars and 4 hand cars. Contracts have been made to complete the road 250 miles beyond Fort Riley and 335 miles west of the Missouri river by the 31st day of December, 1866. This is to a point 663 miles west of St. Louis. Iron to construct 160 additional miles of road, with sidings, has been purchased, to be delivered monthly until April next. All of the iron weighs 56 pounds to the lineal yard. The road is well supplied with stations, depots and water tanks and machine shops and round-houses are in process of erection at Wyandotte and Lawrence. The passenger and freight traffic of the road is already considerable, and as the country is rapidly filling up with immigrants, gives promise of great increase in the future. The gross receipts of one hundred and five miles of main line and thirty miles of branch road for the month, September being $42,000. It represented that the overland passengers and mails for California, including the English sealed mail from London to China, now pass over the road. The report closes with the remark that from present indications it would appear that within a few years the amount of business that will be done over the road, for the Government in the transportation of its supplies, mails and in telegraphing, will be so large that the fifty per cent. provided by law to be retained of the charges will nearly, if not quite, meet the interest paid by the Government on United States bonds issued in aid of the road, so that the Government may really not be at any expense for the loan of its credit towards building the road, while it will save the large difference between railroad and wagon transportation.

Becoming More Vituperative

Democratic literature or to speak more precisely the literature of the Democratic party, has not for several years been as a whole remarkable for elevation of style for purity of expression for justness of sentiment or indeed for any thing else except coarse invective and low scurrility In these last characteristics it is ... ing to a more general notoriety The influence of the La Crosse Wi ... Democrat (whose editor is commonly known as Brick Pomeroy) upon the literature of the party for which it speaks is immense Almost every Democratic editor essays to be his imitator His scurrilously epithetic style is coming into general use among the organs of his party His most vituperative tirades are copied eagerly in all parts of the country and the more scurrilous they are the louder is the applause with which they are received Their leading feature is their persistent revilement of all the prominent men both of the North and South who are not rebels or were not sympathizers with the rebellion Not only are the ordinary resources of the blackguard s and blasphemer s vocabulary exhausted to find terms of reproach and vilification for statesmen and patriots of irreproachable character, but impure imaginations fertile from their gross filthiness, are drawn upon for execrable expressions never found in any dictionary, with which to stigmatize men whose only fault lies in their having zealously served the cause of loyalty If any paper is entitled to be called the organ of the Democratic party of the United States, that paper is the La Crosse Democrat The fact that its indecent diatribes are copied more widely than the articles of any other Democratic paper shows how high a place it has gained in the estimation of its party The fact that its imitators are legion, and that their numbers are increasing with constant rapidity, shows how great an influence it has acquired, and how great a demand there is for the disgusting ribaldry and foul scurrility furnished by its school of writers These papers attack the prominent men of the Union party with the foulest accusations pronouncing them debauchees, thieves and murderers but of course bringing no proof of these assertions except the general charge of their criminality in opposing the rebellion One object of these reckless aspersions doubtless is to divert attention from the too obvious fact that the Democratic party is sustained to a great extent, and especially in the large cities, by the most ignorant and most vicious classes of the population, that in those places where crime most abounds and where the lowest and most depraved classes are congregated in the greatest numbers, there the Democratic majorities are greatest, that the leaders of these masses are the most abandoned of mankind, and that the whole body of them, leaders and followers together, are a reproach to civilization But the fact that the Democratic press, following the example set by the paper whose indecency so many hundreds of Democratic editors are striving to imitate, is constantly growing more and more vituperative, convicts the persons who speak for that party of the very offenses of which they accuse their political opponents. This continual torrent of slander, detraction and abuse, does not hide the character of its authors, but betrays the foulness of the source from whence it springs

"The Lost Cause "—The remains of the rebel General R. W. Hanson one of those Kentuckians who did not "follow their State," were brought to Lexington, Kentucky, a few weeks ago for re interment Preparations were made for a grand rebel demonstration, including military equipage a display of Confederate flags, etc , but the whole programme was nipped in the bud by an order from General Thomas forbidding any military parade, but granting all who desired it the privilege of attending the funeral as citizens in a private capacity The rebels, however, assembled in great numbers to testify their devotion to the "Lost Cause," and the funeral oration was delivered by one Rev Pickett, who had been chaplain of the brigade commanded by Hanson The following is an extract from his "sermon "

"What associations cling around his dust Are not his ashes eloquent? Does not his voice still appeal to something we fondly cherish in the deepest recesses of our hearts? Where, oh, where, shall we look for comfort and for hope, save in the sweet places of our souls? What benefit what hope can we have beyond this? My old comrades! Never again, perhaps, will so many of us be assembled together this side of the grave With the construction that God's providence rules over us shall we not yet witness in His way the triumph of the lost cause? "

Of course these Democratic utterances delivered by a chivalrous divine, are not "political preaching " Nothing of the kind ! Of course, too, they are proof that the reconstructed "accept the situation" and are duly and truly loyal Most certainly ! Loyal—to the "Lost Cause "

"What Pledge Have I Violated ?"

On the 24th ult. a deputation of nine men, exiles from the Southern States, waited upon President Johnson with an address. In reply, the President remarked that he and they had gone through similar sufferings, but that great as those sufferings were, they should not force any but temperate, just action But he knew that justice must temper mercy He had learned that when Executive of a State, and he had also learned that it was time for people to understand that treason was not a mere difference in politics, in which one party triumphed and the other simply failed It is the highest of crimes though since the days of Burr and Jefferson our people seemed oblivious of the fact. He had been accused of being too lenient when holding Executive power heretofore and had learned that clemency might be injustice It had even been said by one skilled in treason, that when traitors become numerous enough treason becomes respectable, and to become a traitor was to constitute a portion of the aristocracy of the country He would now say, God protect the country from such an aristocracy He repeated, therefore—justice to the conscious leaders, mercy and amnesty to the thousands whom they had deceived or driven into rebellion They tried to murder a nation If they had succeeded, the life of the nation would have been reft from it, the Union would have been destroyed The Constitution defines treason, and under that definition it required no great acumen to ascertain who had been or who were traitors "

A day or two ago we found this paragraph in the issue of the Walla Walla Statesman of June 9th, 1865, into which it had been copied from an Eastern paper. At that time ' treason was not a more difference in politics, in which one party triumphed and the other simply failed ' Yet in the theory and practice of the author of this language, treason has since so far changed its nature as to come under this very definition In 1865 the country was told that it "required no great acumen to ascertain who had been or who were traitors " Yet now it is declared that there are no traitors, and that even the courts of law are not competent to fix the crime of treason on any one Of course "I have not changed " "Show me the pledge which I have violated !"

If we had any advice to offer the Democracy—supposing they were capable of comprehending new ideas and humble enough to listen to us—we would say to them give up your pigmy war upon the common schools, acquiesce in the necessities of the situation, adapt yourselves to the present and forget the past which you have made so dreary and barren of good keep a sharp eye on the future, and instead of promoting ignorance, become the leading champions of education Take if you can the wind out of the Republican sails, by rivaling them in the number and quality of your schools and colleges so shall you again get back the political power and influence you have justly lost as the advocates of prejudice, ignorance, violence intolerance and slavery

Only a few weeks ago they were running candidates for Congress in Texas, and the candidates boasted long and loud of the love and achievements for the Confederate cause Thus ... J Gurley, an ex rebel soldier, who was candidate for Congress said in an address to the people of his district ,

The refusal on the part of Congress, to admit the Representatives of the Southern people and States to their seats in that body, and the continuance of the test oath is an unconstitutional usurpation of power, and as much a subversion of the Government as if this dictatorial power was exercised by one man with a diadem on his brow And the great questions presented by this condition of the country are, how long will the people await quietly the voluntary return of this usurping minority to their constitutional obligations? and how long will a free people tolerate this effort to deprive them of their liberties ! Our people are earnestly desirous of peace that they may quietly perform their legitimate avocations, and recuperate their broken and shattered fortunes They deprecate sincerely the threatening aspect of the political horizon, and would avert the pending storm, if in their power But they can only wait with cool heads and stout arms, the coming of events that cast their shadows before them

Impeachment of the President —The following form of a petition to Congress, praying for the impeachment of President Johnson, is being circulated in Ohio for signatures

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled The petition of the undersigned, citizens of the State of Ohio respectfully showeth that Andrew Johnson President of the said United States, is guilty of divers and sundry high crimes and misdemeanors, and language and conduct utterly unworthy of his high office and calculated and intended to bring the authority of Congress into contempt , that, without the authority of the law, he has restored to traitors the property forfeited to and owned by the United States, that he has appointed to offices of trust and authority notorious traitors, contrary to law that he has incited to sedition, riot and murder in the city of New Orleans—for which crimes and misdemeanors your petitioners earnestly pray that he may forthwith be impeached by the House of Representatives, tried by the Senate, and dismissed from the exalted office he so scandalously disgraced

The Mormon Women —A Salt Lake correspondent says

The exceeding plainness, not to say ugliness, of the Mormon women, is a fact that has been commented on by almost all the different visitors of Salt Lake City as indeed, it was almost impossible for the most cursory observer to avoid noticing it But, although often mentioned I doubt if justice has ever been done the subject, which appears to be one of those general rules to which there are very few if any exceptions It is a delicate matter to discuss this subject of the personal attractions of the female portion of the saints and I have been informed that Richardson of the New York Tribune very narrowly escaped a mobbing on the occasion of his second visit to this city, on account of some of his disparaging remarks in his correspondence in this connection It is said a plentiful supply of rotten eggs had been provided, and a crowd collecting before the hotel called for him to make them a speech Fortunately, he either got wind of it or was absent from the hotel and thus escaped, as his appearance would have been the signal for a volley

Illinois and its Products —A correspondent of a Boston paper writes thus curiously "The increase of the population of the State of Illinois from 1850 to 1860 was 860 000 Of its 35,000 000 acres of land, 30 000,000 are tillable Last year it produced one fifth as much grain as all the States in 1860 It is estimated that its present agricultural products support six millions of people Its last corn crop amounted to 177 000 000 bushels , its wheat, 25 000 000 Rev G S Bailey has made a calculation that it would take 25,385 engines to draw the corn crop of the State, and that the trains would be 3 320 miles long Putting the corn into wagons, 44 bushels in each, it would take four million of them to contain it and the procession would be 25 000 miles long—reaching round the globe—and would require more horses to draw them than there are in existence Illinois now has a population of upwards of two millions, of whom at least one quarter are foreigners—principally Germans mainly Protestants and possessing a deep sympathy for the free institutions of the country "

Department He says that fifty thousand troops have been sent into Texas since he took command and forty seven thousand have been sent home from thence being a movement of seventy five thousand troops The General remarks I have felt much unrest in the event ... because I have always held that the occupation of Mexico was part of the rebellion and believing that the ... in our own country was for the ... of republicanism I do not think that ... until Maximilian was compelled to leave I am led to ... that ... and ... for the withdrawal of the Imperial troops in the ground that the usurpation of Mexico was a part of the rebellion ... would have been granted and the miseries of that country for the last year been avoided

On the political condition of the State of Texas he says

The condition of affairs in Texas are anomalous singular and unsatisfactory While Gov Hamilton was clamorous for more troops Gov Throckmorton wants all troops removed from the settled portion of the State asserting that the civil law was all right and that justice would be done freedmen and our soldiers in the courts To give instances of this two soldiers were shot in Benham Texas about two months ago They were unarmed and offered no provocation yet the Grand Jury could find no bill against their assassins but found a bill against Major Smith of the ... Infantry for burglary because he broke into the house of some citizen in the attempt to arrest these men My opinion is that the trial of white men for the murder of freedmen would be a farce and in making this statement I make it because truth compels me and for no other reason

The Great Trotting Feat —A dispatch, dated Boston November 16th says

The great twenty mile trotting horse Captain McGowan attempted the feat of trotting twenty one miles inside the hour to day on the River side Park a half mile track but when he accomplished the thirteen miles which he performed in good style he was withdrawn from the track as the heavy condition of the track was too much for him The parties to the race waived the good day and good track on the suggestion of the judges The time of the thirteen miles was 38 minutes and 32 seconds the quickest time being made in 2 43½—this being the second

Another Warning against Hasty Interments —At Quincy Illinois last week says the St Louis Democrat of November 16th Mrs McClure was supposed to have died on Sunday and on Monday was buried in a vault belonging to the family On Wednesday groans were heard from the vault by the children of the buried woman and an old lady who was with them Upon learning this the husband and neighbors repaired to the vault, broke open the door opened the coffin and found the woman alive She had torn her hair and wounded her fingers in vain efforts to escape from her narrow prison She was taken home and is said to be now in fair way to recover

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR !—ELLSWORTH & CARDWELL, 89 First Street (Post Office Block) would call attention to the fact that it is customary to present those you call on New Year s Day with your PICTURE Now those who are not supplied with CARTES DE VISITE AMBROTYPES SUN PEARLS, and other specimens of PHOTOGRAPHIC ART would do well to call at their GALLERY at once Negatives taken in any kind of weather

OPPOSITION ON THE COLUMBIA!—If rumor may be believed there will be a line of opposition steamers from Portland to the Dalles which will make lively times on the river and reduce fare to such low rates that everybody will have an opportunity to travel as well as everybody has an opportunity to buy a good suit of clothes now of KOHN & FISHEL No 111 Front street—they selling cheaper than can be purchased elsewhere

PICTURE GALLERY.—W B JONES having taken the gallery corner of Front and Morrison streets Portland, would announce to the public that he is making PHOTOGRAPHS from Locket to Life size AMBROTYPES MELAINOTYPES SUN PEARLS and CARTE DE VISITE plain or enameled in the best style of the art If you want card pictures with the most beautiful enamel at lower prices than can be had in the city or State go to JONES GALLERY corner of Front and Morrison dec17d3m*p

In Memoriam —At a regular meeting of Samaritan Lodge No 2, I O of O F held at Portland Oregon, December 10th 1866, the following resolutions were adopted

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God by a sudden dispensation of his all wise Providence to remove from our midst Brother Joseph Koblitz, forcibly reminding us that in the midst of life we are in death therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Koblitz this Lodge has been deprived of a worthy member society of a good Christian and the family of the deceased of an affectionate husband and father

Resolved That in respect to the memory of our deceased brother our Hall be draped in mourning for the period of thirty days

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to the bereaved wife and family of the deceased, as an expression of the sympathy of this Lodge in this their hour of affliction

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the daily papers of this city and the News Age of San Francisco.

SANTA CLAUS.—A great many mythological stories have been told about the origin and the life and times of this Christmas deity—all of which upon the most patient and searching investigation we have found to be false. The true story is about as follows: Santa was born of respectably poor parents, though whether they were honest does not [illegible] history to appear. It is perhaps needless to say his father's surname was Claus, as was his father's before him. It is not important to this history to know more about his mother than that she was a woman. Some time before the birth of Santa his father had been the small editor of a country newspaper, but finding the business likely to starve himself and increasing family, he sold his traps to the proprietor of a traveling lunatic asylum, receiving therefor a copy of Dilworth's spelling book and a small tract entitled "The Road to Ruin." With these stores in his blouse pocket he gathered up his tents and his wife and emigrated to Yaquina Bay, where afterwards Santa was partly born and brought up. The hero of this sketch exhibited no particular genius for anything till reaching that uncertain age of boys, generally called the "big ugly," when he entered upon a long train of researches and experiments which finally resulted in the invention of a mud boat. This discovery so pleased the Dutch neighbors that they instantly and unanimously bestowed on the now famous Santa the title of Kris Kringle, by which name he is reverently called to this day by all true lovers of cabbage. Like many another man before him, Kris (for so he is to be called henceforth in this veracious history) was not proof against the seductions of prosperity. Becoming somewhat inflated by the adulations that everywhere met him, and yielding to the first ambition of his life, he successively refused the offer of a commission as postmaster at Yaquina Bay and then as Indian Agent at the Siletz Block House, and left his home in a canoe, paddled around to Astoria and became the founder of the first traveling peanut stand known in history. Soon after arriving at Astoria he met for the first time a poor mariner, afterward famous in school geographies as Kris Kolumbus. Learning that Kolumbus was also an inventor—he having first discovered bologna sausages, and practically applied them to cull any one—Kringle threw up the peanut business and the two entered into a joint stock company and incorporated themselves under the title of "Kris, Kris & Ko., Navigators and Discoverers." Their first expedition was up the Columbia and Willamette rivers, where they first discovered the Hudson's Bay Co. and "Lo, the poor Indian." During this famous trip they also partly discovered America, but running short of junk, they were obliged to return. Subsequently, Kris Kolumbus managed to buy up a controlling interest in the company's capital stock, froze our Kris out of the concern and completed the discovery of America by himself. Many very intelligent biographers have given credence to the theory that the copartnership of the two Krises first suggested the idea of the O S N Co and the P T Co, but the theory is open to grave objections and may eventually be altogether exploded. Kris Kringle was not the inventor of the Santiam mines, as some have supposed, though he was and is the owner of one share in the Banca Copper, Lead and Tinware Co which he has frequently offered to give away to any individual reckless enough to take it without a bonus, but which Kris, in the lowest state of his moral sentiments, would never consent to deposit in the stocking of even the most defenceless woman or cripple. Such is the genuine philanthropy of the man. After his experience with Kris Kolumbus, Kringle adopted a role frequently fallen upon by old maids who failing to secure the consolations of a husband, find a modicum of felicity in the mental exercise afforded by fondling a cat. Kris, however, who soared above cats from the very first, bought him a candy shop, adopted poor children as his proteges and afterward, as his spirits revived and his wounded feelings healed, extended his operations to the stockings of older people until now he is the largest dealer in that line, in this world or any other as far as heard from. A great many people have wondered why Kris always persists in entering houses by the chimney. That is a matter about which we have not the least bit of information, and if anybody is still curious on that point or doubtful about the correctness of this biographical sketch, we advise them to consult him to-night at precisely twelve o'clock M when he will visit this city in the usual course of business—unless detained by the landing of the ocean steamer at St. Helens.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.—The paper at the Dalles has in its last issue a remarkable statement about the value of property in the city of Portland. It occurs near the close of an article concerning the reported sale of a controlling interest in the capital stock of the O S N Co, and the effect of that transaction on the relative destinies of Portland and St Helens. It says: "Property has already depreciated twenty five per cent. at the Emporium, as we are informed on good authority, with an indication of a downward tendency." This information falls with astounding effect upon the unfortunate people of Portland; for it is the first intimation they have had that ruin hangs by so slender a hair over their heads. It is cruel in the Dalles man to knock off, with a single paragraph, one quarter of all that every man in Portland calls his own. Won't our property men who have been going on buying and selling at the old rates, open their eyes wide now, when they find that they have been [illegible] giving and receiving 100 cents for property worth only 75! What a hauling in of horns there will be—[illegible]! Really, this Dalles fellow deserves our everlasting gratitude for promptly correcting those little errors into which our business men so often fall in their estimates of Portland real estate, and which they would perhaps never discover by their own unaided researches. The Dalles man and his predecessors have heretofore done us the favor to mention some dozen times or more, that we were ruined or about to be. Thereupon and thereby have we been enabled to pluck from even the [illegible] of dark omen, wings to soar aloft upon. Verily,

"O, my gentle Hubert,
We owe thee much, within this wall of flesh
There is a soul which counts thee her creditor."

But, seriously, has not our Dalles neighbor fallen into a slight error in taking it for granted that steamboat lines have been the architects of Portland's fortunes? Has not Portland, really, been the creator of the steamer lines? The philosophy of those men who believe that the city's destiny depends upon the favor or disfavor of a [illegible] company is a good deal like that wonderful [illegible] in geographical science, made by a traveled [illegible] (probably a Dalles man) that, "it is a noticeable fact that large, navigable rivers almost invariably run by the largest cities."

THE DREDGER TOO.—Since the publication of our item regarding the policy of building or purchasing a tug [illegible] for the city's dredger, we have been furnished with items of information in regard to the bill of the O. S. N. Co. for the hire of the steamer Celilo which would seem to support the suggestion we made. Mr McCraken, the chairman of the Council's Committee on River Improvements, states in substance that the Celilo was [illegible] by the O. S. N. Co, at the rate of $25 per day, the Company bearing the expenses of her fuel, and paying three men to work her. They pay the captain $150 per month, the engineer $100 and a deck hand $60. Allowing $1 per day for each man as subsistence, the three men cost $90 per month more. The steamer burns two cords of wood per day, costing $180 per month, and [illegible] $480 in all for machinery. These items of [illegible] amount to $560—or at the rate of $18 66⅔ per day, leaving $6 33⅓ per day for repairs and use of the boat. Mr McCraken further says that the O S N Co will sell the Celilo to the city for one-half what she cost, and the Committee having very fully considered the policy of purchasing, are of opinion that to hire the Celilo is cheaper than to buy or build a tug to run at the city's [illegible]. There is, however, a different opinion among [illegible] of people who are very willing to admit that the River Improvement Committee have proven themselves [illegible] competent and faithful public servants. We have heard no one speak of the Committee's administration in the spirit of fault-finding.

I. O. G. T.—Two lodges of I. O. G. T. were organized last week by T Bramhall, D D G W C T,—one at St. Helens, on Friday, Dec. 21st, when the following officers were elected: Thos J Johnson, W C T; Mrs. Glitter, W V T; J W Woodward, W S; S. Knighton, W F S; Miss Sarepta Krews, W T; John McNulty, W M; Miss Mary Taylor, W I G; J Bonnett W O G; Miss L Wagner, W R H S; Miss Lucy Houser, W L H S; William Watts, P W C T. The second, called Columbia Lodge, was organized at Mr Long's, Columbia Slough, Multnomah County, on Saturday Dec 22 with the following officers: J M Long, W C T; Miss Barbara Whitaker, W V T; Andrew Pullen, W S; J R Paddock, W F S; Miss Martha Whitaker, W T; Charles Wright, W M; Miss N Elizabeth Stansbery, W I G; John Stansbery, W O G; Mrs. Isabel Whitaker, W R H S; Mrs. Martha S Pullen, W L H S; Mrs. Mary Rennison, W A S; Mrs Elizabeth Long, D M; Isaac Rennison, W C; Henry Whitaker, P W C T. Both these lodges start with every prospect of success and rapid increase.

A LITTLE BIT.—On Saturday, Santa Claus' Aids-de-Camp were out in strong force ransacking the city in every direction for tokens for the little folks and the [illegible] generally of their patron Saint. The near approach of this great holiday of the year seemed already to have opened new fountains of affection in everybody's heart and spread upon everybody's face a brighter smile. [illegible] their purses wide and plunged deeply into their contents; packages big and packages little multiplied under the manipulations of the happy man behind the counter, and everybody seemed as merry as [illegible] cash and bright anticipations of the surprises of Christmas dawn could make them.

FINED.—In Recorder's Court Saturday morning, Judge [illegible] listened to arguments of counsel as to the legal [illegible] of the jury's verdict of the evening before, in the case of the City vs. Martha Stoll. It will be remembered the jury returned a verdict of "guilty of using the language specified," but expressed their opinion that the defendant had not violated the ordinance. The Judge very properly held that the jury having found that the defendant used the language complained of, had in effect found a verdict of "guilty," and that the jury's expressed opinion on a point of law was gratuitous and no part of the verdict. The defendant was fined $10 and costs, amounting in the aggregate to $33 15.

NO COURT ON CHRISTMAS.—Our code puts Christmas, New Years, Fourth of July, general election day, and Thanksgiving day, on the same footing as Sunday, in regard to judicial proceedings. They are called non-judicial days, on which no court can be opened nor can any judicial business be transacted, except to give instructions to a jury then deliberating or to receive a verdict, or discharge a jury or for the exercise of the powers of a magistrate in a criminal action or in a proceeding of a criminal nature. In obedience to this statute, the Recorder's Court will not be open on Christmas unless such an exceptional case as the law specifies should occur.

OREGON CITY ITEMS.—We learn the following from the Enterprise: Mr D P Thompson has disposed of his interest in the Woolen factory to Messrs. Brown Bros of Walla Walla, selling the stock at a handsome premium.—A social party will be given at the Cliff House, a new hotel, on Christmas night.—A surprise party visited Rev. Mr Knight one evening last week and left with him a substantial evidence of their esteem for him as a pastor and neighbor. ...The people of Oregon City are discussing with much earnestness the necessity of having a fire department.

CHRISTMAS AMONG THE TEMPLARS.—The Good Templars of this city meet at their Hall to-night for the observance of the [illegible] Christmas tree ceremonies.

LINN CITY RAILROAD.—Articles of incorporation of the Linn City Railroad Company were sent to Salem on Friday to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State. This company contemplates the building of a portage railroad around the falls of the Willamette at Linn City and to connect with lines of steamers above and below. We have not learned the names [illegible] or two of the corporators, or whether there is any [illegible] of proceeding [illegible] the general [illegible].

SWAN ISLAND BAR.—This obstruction of the navigation of the Willamette has nearly disappeared. The original length of the bar was four hundred feet. [illegible] only four hundred feet at the upper end. Where the dredger has worked [illegible] bar was [illegible]. Should the river fall soon so as to permit the work to be resumed, but a few weeks would elapse before the Swan Island bar would be among the things that were.

EXHIBITED WITHOUT A LICENSE.—Mr. Worrall, the proprietor of the Stereopticon on exhibition at Oro Fino Hall Thursday and Friday evenings was fined in the Recorder's Court on Saturday $1[illegible] for exhibiting without a license. It seems Mr W had expected the [illegible] to call on him for the license fee instead of [illegible] required himself to find that officer. His fine was therefore fixed at the sum of the license and the costs of the proceedings.

WILL ADJOURN.—The Circuit Court will adjourn to-day. The proceedings of Saturday were mostly concerning matters incidental to suits. The term has been a long and tedious one, over two hundred cases having been taken up and disposed of. The term opened with one hundred and sixty nine causes on the docket. Somewhere near fifty cases were subsequently added through indictments and appeals.

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—On Saturday the Senator brought down 5 bbls butter, 65 boxes apples, 500 sacks flour, 178 sacks feed and 1 pkge.

Per Alert same day: 8 coops fowls, 1 box books, 383 boxes apples, 540 sacks wheat, 1 box pigs, 17 boxes, 3 boxes eggs, — packages, 1 trunk and 8 hides.

A MEAT ITEM.—A look in at the Franklin Market this morning will convince the most skeptical that Messrs Tidd & Wyman have meats that are meet for the table of a President, Alderman, or any other man,—fat beef, bear meat, mutton, big hogs, little pigs, etc. Give them a call.

INJURED.—A teamster was somewhat seriously injured near the old penitentiary building, on Saturday, by being run over by his wagon. He was under the wagon making some repairs when the team started and a wheel passed over one arm and both legs.

NEW LAW FIRM.—The advertisement of the new law firm of Sterns & Small, appears this morning. Mr Sterns is the present sitting Senator from Grant county and Captain Small is late of the Oregon Cavalry regiment.

HEAVY PORKERS.—Messrs Tidd & Wyman of the Franklin market, killed a hog yesterday which weighed dressed, 623 pounds. He will be offered to-day for Christmas dinners.

STILL IN DEMAND.—Those elegant new winter suits lately introduced at Barman Bros. are still eagerly sought for. They combine neatness, durability and comfort, and are selling at panic prices.

AT PRIVATE SALE.—Mr Cohen having sold at auction the greater part of his stock of jewelry will dispose of the balance on very favorable terms at private sale until New Year. He has yet on hand a choice lot of ladies' jewelry, such as finger and ear rings, breast-pins, neck chains, lockets, etc.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS.—WEIL BROS. have a large and varied assortment of fine dress goods—such as moire antique silk dresses, French and Irish poplins, etc.—which they are selling off at cost, affording an excellent opportunity for the purchase of HOLIDAY PRESENTS. They also offer at cost, the choicest stock of custom made clothing and Gents' furnishing goods.

Wonderful Cure of the Rev D L Brayton, Missionary in India, who was stung by a Scorpion.
"For the first time since I have been in India I have been stung by a scorpion. I went out this morning to my exercises, as usual, at early dawn, and having occasion to use an old box, on taking off the cover I put my hand on a scorpion, which immediately [illegible] the palm of my hand. The instantaneous and severe pain which darted through the system is quite incredible; what an awful virulent pain their sting must contain! I FLEW TO MY BOTTLE OF DAVIS' PAIN KILLER, and found it to be true to its name, after a few moments' relief, I saturated a small piece of sponge, bound it on my hand, and went about by exercises, feeling no more particular inconvenience."

G. VENARD.
CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS 625 AND 627 FRONT ST
HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities, CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.
The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

The sharp corners I turn all beholders astound.

Verbal Anomalies.

THE CONTRADICTION AND ODDITIES OF THE ENGLISH TONGUE.

Under this head a late number of a new magazine has an entertaining article on the inconsistencies and ambiguities of the English language, from which we take the following extracts:

The language is full of paradoxes. "Show me a fire," said a traveler to the landlord, "for I am very wet; and," he added, "bring me a mug of ale, for I am very dry." "You walk very slow," said a man to consumptive. "Yes," he replied; "but I am going very fast." Breaking both wings of an army is almost certain to make it fly; a General may win the day in a battle fought at night; a lawyer may convey a house, and yet be unable to lift a hundred pounds; a room may be full of married men and not have a single man in it; a traveler who is detained an hour or two may recover most of the time by making a minute of it; a man killed in a duel has at least one second to live after he is dead; a fire goes out and does not leave the room; a lady may wear a suit out the first day she gets it and yet put it away at night in as good condition as ever; a schoolmaster with no scholars may yet have a pupil in his eye; the bluntest man in business is generally the sharpest one; Ananias, it is said, told a lie, and yet he was borne out by the bystanders; caterpillars turn over a new leaf without much moral improvement; oxen can only eat corn with the mouth, you may give it to them in the ear; food bolted down is not the most likely to remain on the stomach; soft water is often caught when it rains hard; high words between men are frequently low words; steamboat officers are very pleasant company, and yet we are always glad to have them give us a wide berth; a nervous man is trembling, faint, weak—a man of nerve and a nervous style are strong, firm, vigorous.

Our phrases are not designed to be construed too liberally. Punch tells us of a man who was arrested for attempting to damage the river Thames. What was the man doing? He was trying to pull up the stream. So Joseph's brethren have been excused for putting him in the pit, because, it is supposed, they thought it was a good opening for a young man. A person who holds fast to the truth so literally that he never lets it escape him, is not to be commended any more than the man who takes the part of a friend when the action refers to a pudding but not a quarrel. Daphne of old was turned into a tree; now-a-days a horse is frequently turned into a field.

Two or three words are strung together, and instead of retaining their combined meaning, acquire a new signification. How differently is the action described in scouring a forest and scouring a floor; in skimming the sea and skimming milk; in breaking a dish, breaking a colt and breaking a commandment; in catching a train and catching a cold; in falling into a ditch, falling in love, falling in your own estimation, falling in with a friend, or falling out with a friend, or falling out of a carriage. This peculiarity of our words is what renders you so liable to read, in the funny column of your newspaper, of the person who, in an explosion of grief, burst into tears, and whose remains have not been found; or who carried out a project and was obliged to bring it back again; or who kept his word, and so had a quarrel with Noah Webster, who wanted it for his dictionary; or who courted an investigation and was wedded to his own opinions; or who got off a speech, and has, since, been trying to get on again, having found that his train of remarks was not the right one; or who, at a mass meeting, being fired with indignation, was put out, or who being hemmed in by a crowd, has since been troubled by a stitch in his side; or who was lost in slumber, and after wandering for a long time in his own mind, finally got out on a nightmare.

What do we mean by the awkward, every-day question, "How do you do?" What do we mean when we speak of "old times," knowing as we do that what we call old "times" were really the new and young times, and that the present is the true old age of the world? Has any debating society ever decided whether a house burns up or down? What do we mean when we say, as we often do, that we will do a thing in no time? We have no occasion to laugh at the mistakes of foreigners when we are so continually misunderstanding each other. Said Richard Brinsley Sheridan to his wild son Tom: "Take a wife, Tom, and reform." "With all my heart," said Tom, "whose wife shall I take?" The joke appeared in this city only a few days ago, dressed in a new suit of clothes. An enterprising young man said he was going to start a newspaper. "Which of the papers are you going to start?" his friend asked. A wag, with a fine appreciation of the ambiguities of words, once asked a man: "How many knaves do you suppose live in this street besides yourself?" "Beside myself! do you mean to insult me?" "Well, then," replied the wag, "how many do you reckon, including yourself?" As an instance of the way in which a man may be misled by the forms of language—how he may desire to say one thing and really say the opposite, the story may be mentioned of the gentleman who, speaking in the company of ladies of the want of personal attractions of some ladies of their acquaintance, said: "They are the ugliest women I know—present company always excepted." A furrier, having facilities for renovating old furs, advertised, in a perfectly grammatical manner, "Capes, victorines, etc., made up for ladies, out of their own skins." I may also mention the editor who desiring to compliment a friend, wrote: "He is a clear thinker, a ready and vigorous writer, and a first-rate fellow to boot." The convention of Bloomer damsels who "resolved" emphatically to "wear short dresses or nothing;" the circular of a lady teacher, which spoke of her character and the "reputation for teaching she bears;" and the advertisement of a concert director who announced that a variety of songs might be expected, to tedious to mention.

It is noticeable in our language how a word, by changing its grammatical character, will also change its sense. This is seen in a stanza, in which a farmer wonders—

> "Putting all reports together
> Relating to barley, wheat, and hops,
> Whether the hops will weather the weather,
> Or the weather will crop the crops."

So also with a singular and plural of a word, for a man may have much manner, and yet have no manners. Changes in grammatical character may take place while the sense remains similar. Nouns often do duty as verbs. "What part of speech is man?" said a teacher to a sailor boy. "A verb, sir," he replied. "A verb, is it?" said the teacher with a significant twinkle of the eye; "will you please give an example?" "Man the yards," replied the boy. Mr. Tapley's proof of the same proposition, so far as related to himself, is less direct, but not less amusing. "If ever there was a werb," he remarks, "I'm always a bein', continually doing, and most o' the time a sufferin'." So you salt your meat, and smoke your beef, and bridge a chasm. Verbs become nouns: as long pull, a fine swim, a hard freeze. Adjectives become nouns: as when a lady calls a man a little dear, a big silly or an old disagreeable. Sometimes, indeed, in the mouths of the fair sex, a noun is a better descriptive than an adjective, as a duck of a man, a love of a bonnet.

It may be further noticed that though "caterers" is right, "batterers" is wrong—that though a man from Lapland is a Laplander, yet a man from Michigan is not a Michagoose; though a nailer is one who makes nails, a tailor is not one who makes tails, unless they be coat tails; and though a wavelet is a little wave, and a flowret a little flower, yet a bullet is not a little bull, nor a hamlet a little ham.

AN INCIDENT OF THE WAR.—During the occupancy of Brownsville by the Federal forces, and while Major General D—— was in command at that point, an incident occurred which we cannot refrain from telling "as 'twas told to us."

It seems the general had confiscated—to use a polite term—two beautiful, blooded horses, the property of the Hon. Duncan F. Kenner of this State. Deeming his title none of the best, and knowing the partiality of Texans and Mexicans to fine stock, he determined to sell them at public auction. Accordingly a crier, with a bell, announced to the citizens of that border town the sale of those wonderful animals, that could trot, run, gallop, and get along generally so swiftly, that no watch had ever yet been found fast enough to time them. The excitement grew to fever heat, extending far over into the Mexican country.

At length the day arrived, and with it came the auction. A motley but numerous crowd assembled, and as the horses, carefully blanketed and led by grooms, stepped daintily to and fro, snuffing with expanded nostrils the morning air, the expectations of all were raised to the highest pitch and fully realized. The animals were very beautiful indeed, as they stood stripped of their coverings, perfect models of symmetry and grace. The bidding, of course, was spirited, and soon reached tall figures, but the auctioneer knew a thing or two, and in the midst of the excitement, suddenly ceased his almost unintelligible jargon, and dropping his arms with an air of almost supreme disgust, exclaimed, "What! I thought you knew a good horse when you saw one. Only one thousand dollars for a thorough-bred! Sonnie (to a lad who appeared particularly appreciative) jump on the chestnut and show the gentlemen how she moves; and you, sir, (to another anxious buy) trot the sorrel off." Nothing could have been more easy and graceful than the motions of the horses—they were all life and action, and the bids reached still higher notches.

"Let them go for a hundred yards, boys!" cried the auctioneer, and at the word both animals darted away like arrows from an Indian bow; and almost sooner than it takes to tell, the clattering of their mailed feet had died upon the air, and their very forms melted into distance. The auctioneer, true to the instincts of his race, was the first to recover from the shock.

"Going—going—gone! General, apply to that infernal rebel, Colonel H., for your money."

Out past the farthest picket, whose "halt!" was scarcely uttered ere the objects hailed had vanished, the daring youngsters sped, nor slackened rein until surrounded by their companions in the rebel camp, where, dismounting, they received the warm congratulations of their commander for having so ably executed his little stratagem.

General D. being a church member, did not use any "cuss words" on the occasion, but was terribly exercised as it is ever allowed by the "regulations" for a Major General to become.—N. O. Picayune.

NOT TO BE KICKED.—About twenty years ago Abraham Doolittle was transplanted from Harvard University to one of the Southern States, for the purpose of assuming the editorial control of a violent party paper, where no one labored with advantage for the party simply because an infinite quantity of pistols and multiplicity of bowie knives prevented the advocacy of certain principles and fettered the freedom of speech in a style perhaps not so elegant as efficacious. Doolittle was a Connecticut exotic. He was highly educated, impetuous, brave, yet—with the characteristic cunning of his race—careful of his own interest. He took hold of the paper with a determination to make it "serviceable to the cause," and serviceable he did make it. The opposing candidate was a bad fellow—a duelist, a dram-drinker, a lover of "poker," and a decided votary of Venus. Doolittle dared what no other editor had dared—he said so. The day on which his article appeared, the candidate entered the editorial chamber.

"You are Doolittle, the editor of this paper?" holding a copy of the sheet in his hand.

"I am."

"You have libeled and insulted me, and (drawing a knife) I have come for your ears."

"I beg your pardon," said Doolittle, "I am a stranger to your customs, and perhaps you have taken a license which, in this part of the country, is inexcusable. Such is, I think, the fact; suppose we compromise the matter."

"Very well," said the bluff Southerner; "I'll kick you, and you shall make a full retraction."

"You'll what?" said Doolittle quietly.

"Kick you."

"You insist upon that little privilege?"

"I am unalterably fixed in my determination."

"So am I," said Doolittle, firing a horse pistol as big as a blunderbus, and shattering the Southerner's right leg—"not to be kicked."

He held his situation six months; was stabbed twice; shot three times, belabored with a bludgeon once, thrown into a pond once, but he was never kicked. During his six months' experience he killed two of his adversaries. Those are facts.

A RELIC OF THE GREAT NAPOLEON.—A Washington dispatch dated November 17th says:

"It is supposed that during the recent transfer of the archives of the Department of State to the new building on Fourteenth street, some of them may have accidentally got astray. Among them none could have been more interesting than the following characteristic letter of the great Napoleon, of which the subjoined is a translation. It is surmised that the American Minister referred to was the famous John Armstrong, afterwards Secretary of State:

'To M. De Champagny, Duke De Cadore, Minister of Foreign Relations, Paris:

PARIS, January 19, 1810.—Monsieure Duke De Cadore: You must see the minister from America. It is beyond all ridiculous that he writes of things that he does not comprehend. I prefer that he should write in English, but at length and in a manner that we can understand. How is it that in affairs so important he contented himself with writing letters of four lines? Speak to the secretary, who is about arriving from America. Send a courier extraordinary.

A dispatch in cipher to America to make them understand that that government is not represented here, that its Minister don't understand French, and is a morose man with whom one cannot deal; that all obstacles would be removed—if he had an envoy to talk with in detail on the matter! Let me know what effect the letter from Oldenburg has had in the United States; what has been and what is proposed. Write to America in such manner that the President may know what a fool has been sent here.

(Signed) NAPOLEON.'"

In one of the most populous of the western towns of the Commonwealth, resided two orthodox deacons; one, Deacon Riddle, a wealthy resident of the principal village, the other, Deacon Crawfoot, a plain farmer, and living in the outskirts upon the mountain side. During a protracted meeting held in the village, Deacon Crawfoot came in to attend it, and received and accepted an invitation to dine with his brother deacon. The latter (it was a good many years ago) had champagne upon his table, and asked Deacon Crawfoot to take a glass of the wine. "No," said Deacon Crawfoot, "I never take wine." "But," urged his entertainer, "this is as harmless as cider, and no more intoxicating." "Well," replied the farmer, "if that be the case, I will drink of it." And he did drink and drank freely. The dinner ended, the brethren returned to the meeting, which was a Conference. Very soon after entering, Deacon Crawfoot, who evidently felt the inspiration of his generous dinner, started to his feet and addressed the brethren as follows: "It seems to me, brethren, that I never had such spiritual views and emotions as I experience now. And I thought it best to inquire whether those are confined to myself; or whether this may not be indeed a pentecostal season. Why, brethren, I never had such spiritual views and emotions. It seems as if I was sitting astride the roof of this our consecrated temple, the organ swelling beneath me, the bells pealing above me, and every shingle on the meeting-'us playing on a jewsharp!"

Mr. Everett and Judge Story were at a public dinner. The ordinary toasts were given, when Judge Story arose and said: "Fame follows fortune where ever it (Everett) goes." Everett replied: "Here's to the legal profession. It has never got above the first story (Story)."

to call at his office and be at once restored. Surgical operations SKILFULLY performed on the EYES for film, cataract, strabismus or cross eyes

Below are some of the many testimonials:

This is to certify that I, John B. Jolwan, was blind for over nine years, and I tried all means of a cure, and had many doctors, and all of no effect, and I spent all the means I had. Finally, I had to become a county charge, and when I was taken to Dr. G. W. Brown, and stated my case to him, and misfortune, he at once commenced to treat my eyes, and now I am well, and commend all those that are suffering with diseases of the eyes to call on Dr. G. W. Brown. The reason why I do this is to let suffering humanity know where they can be cured. J. B. JOLWAN.

SATURDAY, Feb. 10, 1866.

This is to certify that my daughter was almost blind for over seven years, and was doctored by other physicians without obtaining any relief, when finally I took her to Dr. G. W. Brown, who examined her case, and at once began to give her treatment, and her sight has been entirely restored. I do this to let those who are suffering with diseases of the eyes know where they can obtain a cure. It has been three years since her eyes were cured, and they are yet sound.

THOMAS LIVINGSTON,
Deer Creek Precinct, Douglas county, Oregon.

SALEM, July 21, 1865.

This is to certify that I was blind for over four months, and almost blind for one year and a half; I tried several eye doctors but received no benefit; I had almost given my case up as hopeless when fortunately I heard of Dr. G. W. Brown, now of Salem. I was induced to try him; he performed a surgical operation on my eyes, and gave me treatment. I soon began to recover, and in a short time I was perfectly cured. I do this in justice to one who rescued me from a fate worse than death, and also for the benefit of those who are laboring under similar afflictions that they may know where they can get relief. It is now about eight months since my eyes were cured and they still remain good. I can see to read the finest print without difficulty, and my eyes can bear the strongest light without pain.

Persons entitled to the benefits of said Bounty will find it to their interest to attend to its collection at once. Having an Agent at Washington, and personal knowledge of the mode of making collections through the Departments, I can get returns promptly.

A. BUSHWILER, Claim Agent.

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE PAYMENT OF BOUNTIES, UNDER THE ACT TO EQUALIZE BOUNTIES, APPROVED JULY 28, 1866.

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, September 18, 1866.

1. All applications shall be filed within the period of six months, from the 1st day of October, 1866, and before any payments are made, shall be classified by regiments, battalions, or other separate organizations, and no application filed after that period shall be settled until after the former shall have been paid.

2. No application shall be entertained unless accompanied by the original discharge of the soldier and the affidavit required by the fourteenth section of the Act, and the further affidavit that he has not received, nor is he entitled to receive from the United States, under any laws or regulations prior to the Act of July 28, 1866, more than $100 bounty for any and all military service rendered by him during the late rebellion, over and above the amount therein claimed.

3. All applications for the additional bounty authorized by this Act from surviving soldiers shall be in the form hereinafter prescribed, and the evidence of identity shall be the same as is now required, and applications from the heirs of deceased soldiers shall be in the form now required by the Treasury Department.

4. As soon as the examination of the claims of any regiment, or other independent organization, shall have been properly acted upon the Paymaster General shall take the necessary steps for their prompt payment.

5. A register shall be kept in the Paymaster General's office, and also in the office of the Second Auditor, of all claims presented under the law, in which the claimants will be classified by regiments, etc. If the claim be allowed, the amount of bounty paid to each will be noted, and if rejected the cause of rejection will be distinctly stated.

6. In the applications for bounty, as required by the third of these rules, the affidavit shall state each and every period of service rendered by the claimant, and also that he never served otherwise than as herein stated.

7. Organizations irregularly in the service of the United States, or called out for special purposes, as State Militia, Home Guards, etc., and not included in the general bounty laws, are not included within the meaning of the Act.

8. Soldiers enlisted for "three years or during the war," who were discharged by reason of the termination of the war, shall be considered as having served out the period of their enlistment, and are entitled to bounty under this Act.

9. The minority of heirs, claimants for bounty, under this Act, must be proven to have existed at the date of its passage. Parents shall receive jointly the bounty to which they may be entitled as heirs, unless the father has abandoned the support of his family, in which case it shall be paid to the mother. Non-residence in the United States shall not be a bar to the claim of heirs, who would otherwise legally inherit.

1. Those who, after serving the full period of their enlistment, were dishonorably discharged at its expiration.

2. Those discharged during enlistment by way of favor or punishment.

3. Those discharged on account of disability contracted in the service, but not occasioned by wounds received "in the line of duty," who shall not have previously served two or three years respectively at the time of discharge.

4. Those discharged on account of disability existing at the time of their enlistment.

5. The heirs of those who have died since their discharge of wounds or disease not contracted in the service and in the line of duty.

6. The surviving soldiers and heirs of deceased soldiers who, under previous laws, have received or are entitled to receive a bounty of more than $100 from the United States.

7. The surviving soldiers, as well as the heirs of deceased soldiers, when such soldiers have bartered, sold, assigned, loaned, transferred, exchanged or given away their final discharge papers, or any interest in the bounty provided by this or any other Act of Congress.

8. The Act of the 28th of July, 1866, creates no right of inheritance beyond those vested by the law under which those heirs received or were entitled to receive the original bounty, and debars certain classes, brothers and sisters of heirs that were entitled to receive the original bounty, from any claim for the additional bounty provided by this Act.

Respectfully referred to the Attorney General for his opinion on the point whether the rules and regulations as within amended are in conformity with law.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Prevention Better than Cure.

The newly invented Patent French Safe, a sure Preventive against Diseases and Pregnancy, sent by mail Price $2. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 616 Kearney St.; cor. Commercial, San Francisco. Postoffice Box 252.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian (or Weekly Oregonian, as the case may be.)

DRAKE'S PLANTATION BITTERS

Have been of great service in making people healthy, and keeping them so. They should be found in every household.

They give tone to the Stomach, vigor to the body, and remove dark doubts and unhappy feelings from the mind. They relieve pain and fortify the whole system against the attacks of disease.

There is nothing better to take "for the Stomach's sake" than the PLANTATION BITTERS.

They cure Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Indigestion, Drowsiness, Headache, Pain in the Side, Liver Complaint, and Rheumatic Pains, with magical power.

A good effect is felt at once upon making the first trial. No change of diet is necessary. Eat the best you can get and all you want. Follow our directions and you will soon feel

WELL, STRONG AND HEARTY.

A great many side bits are being made at the Plantation Bitters, by a score or two of disinterested friends who have endeavored to imitate or counterfeit them. It's all of no use. The people won't be imposed upon. The Plantation Bitters are increasing in use and in [illegible] every day, and "that's what's the matter." They are the same sized bottle, and made just as they were at first, and will continue to be, or we shall stop making them.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhœa, Cholera and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They are the best Bitters in the world. They make the weak strong, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. The Recipe and full Circular are around each bottle. Clergymen, Merchants, and persons whose sedentary habits induce weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, liver complaint, constipation, &c., will find immediate and permanent relief in these Bitters. But above all, they are recommended to weak and delicate females and mothers.

They are sold by all respectable merchants. See that each bottle has our private United States Stamp over the cork and steel-plate side label.

Beware of refilled bottles. See that the stamp has not been tampered with. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon is a swindler and impostor, and should be immediately reported to us.

Mustang Liniment.

OVER A MILLION DOLLARS SAVED!

Gentlemen:—"I had a negro man worth $1,200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the leg, and was [illegible] for over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment. It soon effected a perma[illegible]

[illegible] L. DOWNING.

Montgomery, Ala., June 17, 1859.

"I take pleasure in recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensable article for Sprains, Sores, Scratches or Galls on Horses. Our men have used it for Burns, Bruises, Sores [illegible], and all say it acts like magic. [illegible] W. HEWITT, Foreman American, Wells, Fargo's and Harnden's Ex.

"The sprain of my daughter's ankle, [illegible] while skating last winter, was entirely cured in one week, after she commenced using your celebrated Mustang Liniment.
Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 1, 1865. [illegible]

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery men and planters should always have it on hand. Quick and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing U. S. Stamp of Demas Barnes & Co. over the top.

Lyon's Katharion.

It is a most delightful Hair Dressing.
It eradicates scurf and dandruff.
It keeps the head cool and clean.
It makes the hair rich, soft and glossy.
It prevents hair turning gray and falling off.
It restores hair upon prematurely bald heads.

This is just what Lyon's Katharion will do. It is pretty—it is cheap—durable. It is literally sold by the car load, and yet its almost incredible demand is daily increasing, until there is hardly a country store that does not keep it, or a family that does not use it.

E. THOMAS LYON, Chemist, N. Y.

Lyon's Extract Ginger.

LYON'S EXTRACT OF PURE JAMAICA GINGER—for Indigestion, Nausea, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Cholera Morbus, Flatulency, &c., where a warming stimulant is required. Its careful preparation and entire purity make it a cheap and reliable article for culinary purposes. Sold everywhere at 50 cents per bottle. Ask for "LYON'S" PURE EXTRACT. Take no other.

CAUTION.—See that the private U. S. Stamp of Demas Barnes & Co. is over cork of each bottle. None other is genuine.

Lyon's Flea Powder.

DEATH TO FLEAS.—It is well known that Lyon's genuine Magnetic Powder will perfectly destroy everything in the shape of fleas, ticks, bed-bugs, roaches, &c., but it is perfect poison to the insect tribe, but entirely harmless to the human species and domestic animals. The genuine has the signature of E. Lyon, and the private stamp of DEMAS, BARNES & Co. Anything else of this kind is an imitation or counterfeit. Any druggist will procure the genuine if you insist you will have no other
